

Summary by: Firstname Lastname (May 22, 2020)

We are going to use this template to summarize papers. This summary should use easy language, no jargon allowed! (unless you explain it). It has 4 sections, the Abstract, where you will copy/paste the abstract of the paper; the What's So Special which says what is new in the paper, what is the hypothesis, and the final conclusions; the Interesting Tools and Methods section where you can mention surveys, analysis, techniques, etc., used in the study; and the You Should Also Know! section where you can put things that caught your eye, like theories, definitions, anecdotes, among others.

Make a summary with your own words. Also, include the hypothesis and the conclusions¹.

[illegible]

Did the author(s) use cool surveys or statistical analyses? We want to know too!

- Did you find an interesting theory? Was the experiment really interesting and you want to make it yourself? Tell us about it!

Lastname, Firstname and Author Second (May 19, 2020). "Title of Paper Example Reference". In: Journal of Kansei Design Laboratory.

¹You can include some footnotes.